

Airtight Security

We know the idea of putting your business data in the cloud might make you uneasy. So it's important to know your sensitive information will be protected under even the most extreme circumstances. That's why Afia takes security seriously. We host your information in separate, geographically diverse datacenters —so you can rest assured there's always a backup to the backup.

The cloud is a shared infrastructure that works much like a utility: You pay for what you need so costs are predictable, upgrades are automated, and scaling up or down is a cinch.

Speed That Fuels Business Growth

In business, time is money. And efficiency means even more money. With out-of-the-box cloud technology solutions, we can quickly help you design the right technology package to fit your needs today while keeping an eye on scalability for tomorrow.
